Chief Of Army Strikes Quickly At His Accuser

... Joe Gets In Some Strong Licks, Too

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens gave the lie to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) Thursday as the McCarthy-Pentagon row flared up into stormy hearings before a nationwide television audience.

The Army secretary first accused McCarthy and his chief aids of waging a "persistent, tireless" campaign—the most strenuous one in his official experience—to get special treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine.

Then Stevens labeled as "absolutely false" McCarthy's charge that Stevens urged him to "go after" the Navy and Air Force instead of looking for Communists in the Army's ranks.

"I never made any such statement," Stevens declared. And he denied, too, McCarthy's charge that he tried to use the Schine case as "black mail."

And so ended, in the kind of direct conflict that can lead to perjury charges against somebody, the first day of hearings in the short-tempered atmosphere of an overcrowded, overheated hearing room—with TV floodlights glaring and spectators jammed together in a perspiring mass.

McCarthy got in some licks, too, for all that he has removed himself from the Senate Investigations Subcommittee for purposes of this inquiry.

He denied any "improper pressure" by himself or his staff on Schine's behalf.

And he bitterly objected to Stevens' speaking "for the Army." He blasted the Army secretary as one of the "Pentagon politicians" who are trying, he said, to block investigation of "Communism in the Army."

While Stevens lips worked in speechless irritation, McCarthy said he knows plenty of Army people from privates to generals who want it understood that "Mr. Stevens speaks only for Mr. Stevens."

Mainly, though, it was the Army's day. The Pentagon officials embroiled with McCarthy

Fortress Battering Renewed

Heavy Fighting Flares On North

HANOI, Indo-China (Friday) (P)—The Vietminh rebels renewed their attack on battered northwest defenses of Dien Bien Phu today and the French high command announced "heavy fighting" was underway in the corner of that fortress plain.

The brief early-morning communique from the French high command here gave no other details. It did not state whether the attack in the northwest was another rebel attempt to enlarge holdings in that area or the third all-out attempt by the legions of Communist Ho Chi Minh to overwhelm the vital headquarters heart of the French Union fortress.

The Vietminh renewed their attacks on Dien Bien Phu's northwest sector after being thrown back there last night, the French announced, "with heavy losses."

The French gave this additional picture last night of the fighting, to supplement their account of the repulse in the northwest.

Bombers Strike

Simultaneously bombers, under temporary clearing skies, struck heavily at the Vietminh forces entrenched upon a 200-foot hill on the southeastern rim of the bowl and "probably several companies" of the enemy were destroyed, the French said.

In the northwest, the French said, their strong patrols succeeded in linking up communications with all their defense spots which for the last 48 hours had been under heavy Vietminh pressure.

These patrols were attacked by Vietminh infantrymen who were beaten back in savage hand-to-hand fighting. Before the infantry attack, the Vietminh pounded the French heavily with mortars and machinegun fire.

Probing for a soft spot in the French defenses, which had dwindled to an area of not more than a mile and a quarter across, the Vietminh succeeded in piercing the first strings of barbed wire entanglements in the northwest.

were called on first to back up, if they could, their charge that McCarthy and aids Roy M. Cohn and Francis Carr sought by "improper means" to get favors for Schine.

Maj. Gen. Miles Reber was the lead-off witness. He testified that in 10 years of dealing with Congress he couldn't recall any "greater pressure" than McCarthy's office turned on to get a quick commission for the about-to-be-drafted Schine.

McCarthy was ready with a counter-attack. He demanded to know if it wasn't true Reber's brother, Sam, had been ousted from the State Department as a security risk.

Reber, former Army liaison man with Congress and now commander of U.S. forces in Western Europe, replied that his brother retired at the age of 50 as he was entitled to do by law.

The general said he didn't know anything about any security case involving his brother.

Hits Hard At Sam Reber

McCarthy also contended Sam Reber made "vicious attacks" on Cohn and Schine when he was acting U.S. high commissioner for Germany and the subcommittee trip there in 1953.

Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the subcommittee, at first ruled out this line of questioning on the ground it had nothing to do with the inquiry.

McCarthy fired back: "If I can't show bias and prejudice, it is a violation of every rule of law."

At the State Department officials were asked about McCarthy's questions intimating that Sam Reber was removed as a security risk. A department spokesman said only that records show Reber "voluntarily retired" after 27 years in the diplomatic corps.

The spokesman said "we can't say more than that" when asked if Reber reacted with security checks against him.

Reber, a Harvard graduate, is reported to be living in New York City.

SMITH APPROACHED

The Army side also called Walter Bedell Smith, acting Secretary of State, who said Cohn once approached him in quest of a commission for Schine. He said Cohn asked, among other things, about the possibility of getting Schine commissioned through the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

Smith said the suggestion might have been made by the CIA. Allen Dulles, Cohn's reply, he said, was that the CIA was "too juicy a subject" for future investigations—that it wouldn't be right to place Schine in the CIA and then investigate it.

McCarthy's subcommittee planned to investigate the CIA for alleged subversive last year—before the Schine controversy arose—but held off when Dulles and other administration officials argued the agency is too sensitive to have its affairs made public.

No High Pressure

Jenkins asked Smith if he had the impression Cohn was trying to high pressure anybody.

"Not me, sir," Smith replied. The Army secretary, frowning at times as he read from a prepared statement, detailed what he called the McCarthy office's "persistent, tireless effort to get special consideration for this man (Schine)."

Mostly, Stevens said, it was Cohn who did the telephoning and the alleged threatening.

He listed more than 65 phone calls and 19 personal meetings between McCarthy or staff members and officials of the armed forces on the Schine case.

He told, too, of an incident at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., last fall. Stevens said he took a group of Congress members to a secret radar laboratory where, that Cohn went along, but was not allowed in the laboratory.

"Extremely Angry"

Cohn, the Army secretary said, was "extremely angry." He quoted Cohn as telling an army colonel:

"This means war.... Don't they think I am cleared for classified information? I have access to FBI files when I want them."

He did this on purpose just to embarrass me. We will really investigate the Army now."

Peace Co-Op Urged

Press Should Emphasize Unity—like

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower told the free world Thursday night to build a co-operative peace or face "an imposed peace, now sought by Communist powers, as it was by Hitler."

"Aggression is still a terrible reality," the President said at a dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

More than 2,000 persons applauded as the President, ruddy-faced from his Georgia vacation and dressed in white tie and tails, called for domestic unity and international co-operation.

He asked the press not only to report but to "achieve perspective with respect to facts" in the interests of international understanding.

More than 1,000 policemen were stationed along the President's route from LaGuardia Field to the hotel following his arrival from Augusta, Ga., via Washington.

Eighty-eight detectives and almost 200 uniformed policemen were stationed in the area of the grand ballroom as the President delivered his address.

Applauded Heartily

The precautions, described by police as the greatest ever taken to protect a public figure in New York, were prompted by attacks of Puerto Rican Nationalist fanatics against American public officials.

The President was applauded heartily when he declared "The press should give emphasis to the things that unite the American people equal to that it gives to the things that divide them."

Eisenhower called for an American crusade against "the poisonous propaganda of the Scvies" and cautioned:

"Either the nations will build a co-operative peace or, one by one, they will be forced to accept an imposed peace, now sought by the Communist powers, as it was by Hitler."

Co-operative Peace

Hammering at that point, the President added:

"If this is not to be an age of atomic hysteria and horror, we must make it the age of international understanding and co-operative peace."

He appealed for a better understanding between the governments and the peoples of the free world and declared no group can be more effective in helping to achieve that goal than his host organization, the publishers association.

The President said 75 per cent of all people on earth live under conditions where news is censored.

"Small World"

"Into that vacuum caused by censorship and illiteracy," he said, "pours the positive and poisonous propaganda of the Soviets." He added:

"We live in a small world, and only a co-operative effort of the free peoples occupying important areas can we build security and peace. It is not a question of turning the press, radio, television and newsreels into media of sugar-coated propaganda, 'selling' America to the Frenchman, France to the German, and Britain to the American."

"It is quite different from that x x x for understanding we need the facts and the perspective in which they fit. I am sure that the free press in all free countries has made real progress in this direction."

Returns to Washington

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower returned from New York Thursday night where he addressed the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. earlier in the evening.

The President's plane left New York at 9:05 a.m., CST, and touched the Washington airport at 10:11 p.m.

Friday the President will return to Augusta.

Real Estate Reappraisal 'Target Date' May 10

By VIRGIL FALLOON

Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County citizens can expect to learn the effect of the county-wide reappraisal of all real estate on their property after May 10.

While May 1 was recently announced as the "target date" for the mailing out of real estate appraisal notices, the "dovetailing" of the many-sided operation has admittedly slipped a little behind schedule. May 10 or after seems the more likely date.

E. T. Wilkins and Associates, who are scientifically reappraising all real estate for the county, are "picking up loose ends in the job and expect to have all figures in the hands of the county assessor by next Tuesday," a county board member said.

Assessor Arthur Davis said his office is completing its preliminary work "on the heels" of the reappraisal firm.

'Control Sheets'

Davis said his "control sheets" on all of the 26 rural precincts in the county are completed, but that there are "gaps" for many Lincoln subdivisions.

"We're up to the minute on the Wilkins cards we've gotten," he explained. "Error-free has been given to the control sheets over the posting of the property rolls to do this."

These "control sheets" on the appraisal figures will be used by the Lancaster County Real Estate Classification and Reappraisal Committee in determining the total real estate valuation for the county.

The three-member committee, headed by Thomas R. Pansing of Lincoln, is "standing by" to begin their work when the figures are in.

Barney said the county "is hoping to have a rough total toward the end of this week or the first part of next" so that the Pansing committee can "begin to go over the Wilkins figures."

Meet Jointly

It was indicated that the Commissioners, the ex-officio county board of equalization, will meet jointly with the Reappraisal committee to expedite the work.

On the mechanical side of the work, "as many computerizer operators and machines as can be practically used" will begin the figuring of the 1954 actual and assessed (50 per cent of actual) valuations to be transferred to the nearly 60,000 notices and pages in the assessor's property books.

Posting of the 1954 valuations on the notice cards will be the last operation. Addressing, posting of 1953 valuations, and the typing of property descriptions will have been completed in the processing of the cards, which will be mailed in window envelopes.

The notice will advise the property owners the dates of the hearings conducted by the Wilkins firm, which are designed to explain to owners the mechanics and mathematics used in the appraisal of the individual property.

On May 17 the County Board of Equalization will begin its session to hear complaints of property owners on the assessed values.

The format of this year's session will differ from past sessions, when equalization board members personally viewed the individual property on which complaints were filed.

General Basis

This year, the reappraisal cards will be the general basis for any warranted adjustment in individual assessed values.

The nature of the board's work will be largely the reviewing with the complainant the reappraisal card for possible mathematical or mechanical errors which would effect the determination of the assessed value, according to Barney.

Barney anticipated a record number of complaints would be filed, largely by people who "will just want to find out if the reappraisal of their property is right or wrong."

It is expected that these complaints may dwindle in number during the equalization session, as the effect of the reappraisal becomes more generally understood by individual property owners.

'Over Half' Of Parents OK Salk Polio Vaccine Use Here, Dr. Googe Reports

Responses from parents to the Salk polio vaccines for students in county schools has been reported as very good by Dr. James T. Googe, city-county health director.

Dr. Googe said Thursday that "way more than half" of the parents of the near 2,000 second graders in the county have given their approval to the vaccination tests. Still to report, Dr. Googe said, are the Parochial schools and one more school out in the county.

Dr. Googe said Thursday he hopes the polio vaccine in the county, to be used as part of a nationwide test, will arrive in Lincoln by Sunday. This will facilitate the start of the program by Monday, he said, at which time second graders in the county will receive the shots.

The shots will be given only to second graders, it was explained, while students in the first and third grades will give samples of blood to provide a comparative basis for evaluation of the vaccine on the second graders.

The city-county health director asked school officials in the county to keep a close watch on newspapers in case the vaccine is late in arriving and the tests will have to be delayed.

Several schools in Lincoln have reported acceptance by parents of the test of close to 90 per cent in most cases.

Danish Agriculture Group Visits State

By JOHN SWANSON

Star Farm Editor

MURRAY, Neb.—A group of observers representing some of the biggest names in Danish agriculture were in Nebraska Thursday to compare first-hand notes with farmers and farm officials.

The group of six men from the small but highly-advanced farming country studied farm operations in Cass and Otoe counties in eastern Nebraska, and later toured the College of Agriculture campus in Lincoln.

Early hosts during the visit were members of the State Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Owen Burton, Frank Reece and Parr Young, chairman, a reunion airmarked the first stop at the Fred Rehmer farm west of here. Rehmer, a native of Denmark, explained his farm operation in the visitors' own tongue. Rehmer is a member of the Nebraska State Farm Board.

Conservation terraces, dairying and cattle feeding were studied at the Parr Young 400-acre farm near here. After a dinner of Nebraska-famous T-bone steaks at a Weeping Water home, the tour made stops at Cass County farms.

Appearing under the auspices of the Foreign Operations Administration of the USDA, the six will leave Lincoln Thursday night for Denver. Their trip will also include farm observation near San Francisco, San Jose, Fresno and Los Angeles in California before returning to New York.

The visitors are: Paul Staahlschmidt, department chief in the Ministry of Agriculture.

Valdemir K. Hornslet, division chief in the ministry.

Niels C. Kjaergaard, deputy to the secretary general of the Danish Agricultural Council.

Julius Vestbro, farmer and member of the national board of directors of the small landholders' society.

Fifth FHA Official Gets The Ax Loan Chief A. Frenz Is Fired

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration's boss of home repair loan insurance was fired Thursday as a Senate investigation turned to that phase of its housing scandal probe.

Latest to get the ax was Arthur J. Frenz, assistant housing commissioner in charge of Title I operations, the program that insures private lenders on home repair and improvement loans.

In announcing that Frenz was through as of Thursday, Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole said he had "no evidence of any illegal activities" on the assistant commissioner's part, but gave no reason for the dismissal.

Frenz is the fifth official affected by a shakeup of the housing agency's top echelon since President Eisenhower started it off by "accepting" the resignation of commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday on April 12. Hollyday was asked to step aside while a free-swinging investigation of the agency's affairs was undertaken.

Cole predicted at the time there would be more firings, and possibly some criminal prosecutions, as a result of alleged laxity in the insuring of loans for home repairs and apartment house building.

Frenz had been with the home repair loan section since it started in 1934 and had been in charge of its operation since 1947.

The story of big profits came not from home repair jobs, however, but from the construction of big apartment developments under the Emergency Housing Act that expired in 1950.

Capehart told of one Long Island project involving a cash investment of $90,000 which returned a profit of $4,600,000 to three couples and their eight children. He identified the project as Glen Oaks Village, in which he said 11 big apartment buildings were financed with insured mortgages totaling $24,353,000.

Telegraphers Will Consider Strike Vote

Lincoln telegraphers, along with other members of Local 112 in four other Midwest states, will consider a strike vote within the next month.

Howard W. Brandon, local official, will attend a union caucus in Chicago Saturday to discuss action on a nation-wide strike ballot called by union leaders.

The members of the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union will hold regional and local meetings to decide action. Balloting is to take place by May 31.

The strike vote was called by the national bargaining committee of the Western Union Division of the CTU after it broke off negotiations with the company.

The committee said the company had refused to offer any across-the-board wage increase and had made proposals that "would actually result in wage cuts."

The union and the company have agreed to resume negotiations May 24 in Washington, D.C. Nationally the CTU, including all Western Union employees except those in the New York City area, numbers about 35,000.

Local company officials had no comment.

It Happened In NEBRASKA---

A widely used emigrant trail in pioneer days crossed the Platte west of Ogallala. Experienced trappers who knew the country well usually led the slow-moving wagon trains across the river. Their experience saved many a wagon, for there were treacherous quicksands along the river bed.

Another dramatic "crossing" in recent years has been toward a new conception of the tavern industry. Retailers have made their establishments as respected and wholesome as any other business enterprise.

Role Of The Forester

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Announcement has been made by the Federal Forestry Service that it is moving its headquarters from Halsey to Lincoln on the opening day of May. The change is a part of the general transition now taking place in the forestry service, resulting in closing of some of the forestry offices, the transfer of responsibilities to other headquarters, and a general revision with an eye upon economy.

This editor has always had a deep admiration for the forestry service. Some of his friends in college entered its ranks and distinguished themselves in years of public service. In a larger sense, these men who guard our forests day after day, who live in the outdoors under the sun and the stars, seem to go about their duties with a spirit of dedication to one of the great undertakings carried on by modern civilization. We have seen them in the high mountains, in the flat-ness of the plains, on the shores of glistening lakes, and always there has been the unuttered reverence for the magnificent field to which they have dedicated themselves.

Supervisor Russell K. Smith of the Halsey Forest comes to Lincoln to establish headquarters. Halsey itself will be in charge of new caretakers. Mr. Smith is so typical of the breed who dedicate themselves to preserving and to increasing America's forestry resources after a less thoughtful nation for years closed its eyes while the natural forests of his country were being despoiled. He is a most capable man. Busy as he will be, we know there will be times when Mr. Smith's thoughts will be upon his trees that carpet the hills of a fascinating country in the region between the Dismal and the Middle Loup.

No dreamer, he; nevertheless he knows the language of the trees—those growing pines pointing to the stars.

Best Plan For Asia

We know that a great many readers of this newspaper make a habit of reading Mark Childs' column, when the opportunity furnishes itself.

Their confidence in what he writes is justified.

He is a seasoned, scholarly commentator, a competent observer of both the national and the international scene who writes in objective spirit.

His column today deals with the world scene, including faraway Asia, old and weary—and scarcely less weary Europe—with its long-standing animosities reflected in its blood-stained soil. Mr. Childs has been in Europe for some time in advance of the Geneva conference, talking to the key men in European governments, delicately probing the sore spots with the expert touch of a medical diagnostician.

The reader may differ with what Mr. Childs has to say in his column, but the column itself is well worth the reading. It puts the pieces in their places with the use of a minimum of words. It projects some heretofore undiscussed conflicts and agreements which in the case of a happy ending could remove some of the tension in the air today. Mr. Childs seems to feel that the United States in the event of certain developments has made certain commitments in Indo-China.

Meanwhile in Des Moines, addressing a party rally, Vice President Nixon laid down a prescription for Asia. Firmness, he said, is the best plan to avert additional Communist aggression in Asia. It was the belief of the administration, he declared, that a position of strength in Asia and Indo-China is the only way to avoid war. There will be complete agreement with his statement that we will not keep our boys out of Indo-China by telling the Communists that they can come in. There is over-simplification of the most glaring type. No one in this country would favor inviting the Communists to move into Indo-China, either by direct, complete withdrawal or as the result of omission to take the position necessary to keep them out. It will ease nerves infinitely if the administration will disclose frankly its own feelings about American involvement, beyond that which now is recognized, in Indo-China.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

There could be untold disillusionment and heartache in the unfolding revelations in connection with Uncle Sam's housing program. What is the end objective or objectives of the investigation which it is said adds one more scandal to Washington's many scandals?

We are quite sure that millions of Americans—the little, unknown people who in the inarticulateness of the humble fireside read and think of abuses which it is said put millions of ill-gotten gains into the pockets of individuals or groups—must experience a chilling sense of depression as they turn these matters over in their minds. Is it the thought of the administration to plug loopholes now existing in the law which established the government's housing program? Is it the thought of the administration to lay foundations for action by the Justice Department to recover the money where circumstances seem to justify action. We assume that in all good time, the natural questions raised by this preliminary expose will be answered. But as of this writing, the answers are not clear.

On the contrary, one highly placed official in the housing administration has expressed a restrained doubt as to whether legal action of an effective nature is available to Uncle Sam. If that is the case, then we are in the position of trying to bolt the barn door after the horse has been stolen. We are crying over spilled milk. And with the horse gone and the milk soaking the ground, where do we go from here?

No right-thinking American will condone or excuse what we are told has happened. It is inexcusable, if not worse than inexcusable. Who were these people who, it is charged, lined their pockets with public funds by the simple device of over-estimating the costs of housing developments, in the apartment house field, or in guaranteed loans for improvements and betterments for homes? Are their names to be denied the public? Or is the whole housing picture to be brought out where anyone who desires to see it may have a full view? Here is the head of the National Association of Real Estate Boards pleading for the passage of the so-called Eisenhower administration's housing bill for 1954, pointing out that it has been strengthened against possible abuse, urging stricter checks on appraisals and forthright disciplinary action against guilty lenders and dealers, expressing the hope that the housing scandals will not deal a death blow to housing aid altogether. FHA insurance, he added, "has earned a place as a permanent feature in our national mortgage system." We think not only that it is true but imperative. And at the same time, alongside (other items) in Washington, there could be nothing more ironic than the contrast to be found in current discussion.

Here is the head of the National Association of Real Estate Boards expressing the hope that the alleged scandals in the Federal Housing Administration will not deal a death blow to housing aid altogether. FHA insurance, he says, has earned its place as a permanent feature in the national mortgage system. Now, what is the farmer really asking? Stripped of all unnecessary verbiage, all the farmer really seeks is a profitable price for what he produces. We can argue all night about flexible price supports or a program based upon 90 per cent of parity, but in the end, all that the farmer is seeking can be summed up in the few words—a fair share of the national income. Back to the housing mess, we hesitate to draw the conclusion that seems inevitable from the circumstances set forth. If there have been abuses, then those abuses have taken place in the name of private enterprise. And anyone who in his heart believes in private enterprise will not gain any satisfaction in that reflection.

U.S. Launches Twin Diplomatic Program

ROME—The United States is about to launch a far-reaching diplomatic offensive that will very likely in coming weeks and months determine the balance between peace and war in the world. The initial steps have already been prepared in Rome and in Paris, and the pattern of the forthcoming Geneva conference has been more or less predetermined as a debate that must be skillfully managed but one which will have no significance insofar as the charted course of the West is concerned.

This diplomatic offensive has two main goals. The first is to bring about ratification of the European Defense Community before the parliaments of France and Italy go on their summer vacations—that is, before mid-July.

The second and more difficult step is to get united European and Asian support behind continuing and successful prosecution of the war against Communist guerrillas in Indo-China. This last is admittedly much more uncertain, although now that the first obstacles are out of the way American policy-makers are more confident.

It can be said on reliable authority that one of the major steps has been prepared in Rome, Washington and Belgrade; that is, to give Italy satisfaction in a quick solution of the Trieste controversy.

The groundwork is believed to have been carefully prepared with assurances given to Marshal Tito that will make it possible for him to accept the partition of Trieste.

These assurances are related to the defensive alliance which Tito has just signed with Turkey and which will later be concluded with Greece. American policy-makers have indicated that much greater economic and military aid will be forthcoming to make this three-power alliance one of the strong fronts against Communist imperialism.

If these plans work out, and American officials are cautiously confident, then Italy will before mid-July line up with the four nations that have already ratified the European army pact. This would leave France as the only holdout. But the growing belief is that the preparatory assurances have been given which will bring action in the French assembly.

A public pledge has been made by President Eisenhower that American troops will remain in Europe so long as there is any threat of danger from any source. But far more important is the pledge believed to have been given privately by Secretary of State Dulles during his recent quick round of consultations in Paris.

Dulles is believed to have given assurances to the French that American military power will supplement and, if necessary, supplant the French forces that have for eight years been holding a precarious position in Indo-China. Unquestionably, at the present time this would draw an official denial, since Congress and public opinion in America are not prepared for such a radical undertaking. But here in Europe Vice-President Nixon's remarks about having to send ground troops from America in the West eventually are believed to be directly related to an effort to prepare opinion for this drastic step after Geneva.

Secretary Dulles did, however, emphasize to the French that before Congress could be approached for active American participation, it would be necessary to get at least token units of powers immediately concerned with the fate of Southeast Asia into the battle line. Consequently in the opening weeks of the Geneva conference while East and West wrangle over Korea, which is insoluble in any event, and over who shall be allowed to discuss Indo-China when it is discussed, Americans will be working intensively to get active support for the war from such powers as the Philippines and Siam.

One eventually could obviate the need for this hazardous strategy—that is, if Peiping and Moscow should at Geneva agree to throw over Hu Chi-Minh and his Communist guerrillas and thereby reduce the war to a mopping-up operation within the scope of the French aided by the large-scale help now coming from America. But no one believes that this will happen.

High-Water Trousers Are Now The Vogue

By MONA B. PARKER

Comes now to light a modest fisherman who had an apparently true "whopper" to tell, and took five years in the telling. The pursuer of pisco is William T. Aue of Falls City, and his story concerns a 112½-pound blue catfish that he and V. A. Boggs of Omaha, formerly of Falls City, pulled out of the Missouri River on the Richardson-Nemaha County boundary line way back in December of 1949. The huge fish, which Mr. Aue said measured five feet, two inches in length, was caught in a drag seine at a time when a considerable amount of ice was floating in the river. "At the time we didn't think very much about it, and only some of our friends and neighbors knew about it."

The two men dressed the fish, steaked it and gave most of it away to friends, describing the process "like cutting up a fat hog."

The favorite springtime pastime was good around Kimball on a lazy Sunday afternoon, too, good from a financial point of view for several enthusiastic citizens. One man had pulled 12 trout out of the west reservoir when Game Warden George Weidemann and Sheriff George Brann appeared on the scene to check on everything over the legal limit of seven. Subsequent court costs amounted to $52.

H. M. Crilly must have felt a vague yearning for the great out-of-doors, too, when he sat down to fill his "Too Late To Classify" column for the Superior Express. It occurred to him how easy it would be if he had a chunk of boiler plate such as used back in handset days. The no longer available ready-made reading material came in such form that "You could just saw off a chunk the right length and you were ready to go."

Go fishing, that is.

Paul R. Busch thinks "Nebraskans are wonderful people." Said he editorially in the Howells Journal: "They know the soil and the crops like a fisherman knows the winds and the tide. . . . Some day someone will capture the Spirit of Nebraska and chain it to a piece of paper. . . . They will discover that this Spirit has two hands, one a conservative hand that resists expensive or complicated government, the other a progressive hand that tries radical experiments like the unicameral legislature. . . .

"They will discover a heart that places neighborly friendship above financial gain and eyes that enjoy seeing a field of ripe, waving grain more than any masterpiece ever displayed in a museum."

Arch W. Jarrell, in the Grand Island Independent: "Grand Island's average daily water consumption this month has been a million gallons higher than last April, and it surely can't all be because the Jarrells are trying, with pallid results, to grow a new lawn."

The Hay Springs News notes that it is the time of year when not only milady's wardrobe comes into perspective, but ideas for revolutionary change in masculine garb are also in full bloom. Latest indications are that to be socially acceptable this year, men will be required to wear their trousers four inches above the ankle. This also, it was pointed out by way of inducement, would be a boon in inclement weather. "We suppose that means mud," the News raves. "So the vital question here would be whether it would be worse to risk getting these trouser cuffs muddy and sending them to the cleaners—or exposing the ankles to every passing breeze."

And to the clamor by the same stylists that a perfumed pocket handkerchief should be carried at all times, the News says merely: "Well, men?"

Senatorial Itch

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In other years it was considered politically expedient for the Republican party to recognize both North and South Platte regions in the division of its senatorial nominations. But in late years the hungering political ambitions of north side Republicans have ignored political expediency and have grabbed all the honors and are now contesting among themselves as to their own popularity. This will be noted in the four candidates for primary nomination, with still others bothered with the troublesome itch. But the hungering of the North Platte aggregation hasn't stopped there. For 14 years the governorship has been in their hands and see what a mess it has ended up in!

Now a diversity of ideologies between these two sections has crept into the picture. Those on the north side are largely interested in the livestock industry, which was in the sorest of dumps 20 years ago. But it fattened under 20 years of Democratic administration, has now become domineering and powerful. It refuses to recognize the plight of the south side Republican farmers troubled with their surpluses, something the livestock industry does not have. And so to make sure of a senatorial nominee from their section, a multiplicity of candidates will be presented.

But they have set the staging for the South Platte entry—Carl Curtis. The odds at present are his. But they tell us there are others with the senatorial itch who might pull votes from Carl. In that instance, it would only add to Terry Carpenter's plurality. The more in the race, the better for Carpenter.

CECIL E. MATTHEWS

Joining Issues

Riverton, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It was interesting to read the conclusions of "R. H." in last Wednesday's Star on "Comparing Prices."

In a legal controversy, it is stated that when parties join issues, the case is ready for trial. So in the letter from "R. H.", he in one respect states the issues joined clearly when he writes: "If anyone wants high prices for cream, eggs and grain, he should cast his vote for the Democrats"—and "Things we buy are going up while what we sell is going down."

There is the argument of the Republicans in a nutshell.

Again "R. H." states that he wants a two-party system. However, we do not want a Republican party whose policies are as stated by "R. H." and implemented by Hoover and McCarthy.

"R. H." tells us that he spent 40 months in World War II. Such was a service for which he should feel proud. All true Americans feel like taking off their hats and thanking those boys for what they did for their nation, humanity and principle. Does "R. H." believe that those who fought in World War I and those who against Hitler were dupes of a Democratic administration? He closes his letter by stating that he is an Ike man, will vote for him again. Ike was a brave soldier who never sought to discredit the war and the cause he fought for and won. He gave honor and praise to his Commander-in-Chief, Mr. Roosevelt, whom "R. H." classifies as a dishonest man. Ike now threatens to go further than the Democrats and to initiate a war in Indo-China. This does not faze "R. H." It is fine and just for his Republican party to wage wars in for-

DORIS FLEESON

White House Squeeze Is Felt In Congress

WASHINGTON—White House aides are beginning to bustle around the corridors and cloak-rooms of the Capitol in numbers and energy reminiscent of the Corcoran-Cohen era of the New Deal, and they are getting comparable results.

As senators debated on the floor the various fixed-price-support amendments to the wool bill offered by the farm bloc, the word was spread behind the scenes that affirmative votes would be simply waste motion. The President, senators were told, would veto the bill if it came to him loaded with such amendments.

All that would be accomplished then, it was pointed out, would be that the woolgrowers would be angry with Congress, whose members and not the President are largely up for election this fall.

Thus it is anticipated that when the amendment sponsors have finished their arguments, the administration will have its way.

Similar pressure is being applied in behalf of the tax-revision bill with the twin aims of passing it substantially unaltered and defeating the George amendment to increase personal income-tax exemptions.

As of now, the latter goal has been achieved. Unless some new and striking evidence of a deepening recession appears before the final vote is taken, the George amendment is dead.

Even before Sen. George went home to Georgia to nurse a virus that has plagued him during the past several springs, an unofficial minority check revealed that the amendment would lose by eight to ten votes. If he returns in time to carry some of his close personal friends with him, that rather close margin may be maintained. If he can't, it is expected that the administration will prevail by 15 to 18 votes.

The liberal coalition is holding tax seminars and will fight the bill's major provisions, especially the dividend tax, where some hope of success is seen. But with the White House putting the heat on election-conscious members, the bill itself should go to the President for signature.

In another tense legislative situation the White House is apparently keeping hands off. This is the argument over the wire-top bill which the house passed in a form unpalatable to Attorney-General Brownell. It is now in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Here the St. George of civil rights is, of all people, Sen. McCarran of Nevada, who insists that the attorney-general shall be carefully restricted in his use of the wire-tap privilege.

Attorney-General Brownell does not want to go to the court—permission to wire-tap, as McCarran is determined he shall. Brownell also has had inserted in the bill—and it got by the House—a neat little retroactive gimmick that would enable him to stage several other Harry—er White dramas before the election.

Reporters Say Can't Find Oppenheimer

WASHINGTON—The secret of the A-bomb may have been carefully guarded at Los Alamos, but not more so than the present whereabouts of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, the man who presided over Los Alamos. Five Life magazine photographs and news-photos have been scouring the area where Oppie is supposed to be hiding out, but so far not one fleeting, slithering glimpse of him.

All week the Oppenheimer loyalty hearing has been taking place in Washington, but where nobody knows. Neither the three-man loyalty board nor the doctor himself can be located.

Lloyd Garrison, attorney for the atomic scientist, is just as mysterious as his client. He shuns hotels, is hidden out in a private residence, goes occasionally in the Law office of his partner, ex-Treasurer Counsel Randolph Paul. Photographers have finally hit on the strategy of waiting for him at Paul's office to tail him home.

However, though the Oppenheimer hearings are a better-kept secret than the hydrogen bomb, word has leaked out that the three-panel board has been giving Oppie a rough time. First, they raised cam with him for releasing the text of his reply to Atomic Energy Commission charges—though it had been specified in writing that he had every right to do so. The White House also was irked at the release. So now they have demanded that Oppenheimer be like the proverbial brass monkeys—say nothing, do nothing, see nothing.

Two key witnesses at the hearing have been Gen. Leslie Groves, head of the entire atomic energy project; and Gen. Fred Osborn, U.S. delegate to the UN Commission on Atomic Energy. Both were favorable to Oppenheimer. Osborn testified that when he was appointed to the UN Atomic Commission, Oppie warned him that the Russians were trying to steal the secret of the atom bomb and to be on his guard.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE. Pentagon reports persist that a deal is in the works to save face for Joe McCarthy. Roy Cohn, brilliant burbling counsel of the McCarthy committee, would get the axe, also John G. Adams, counsel for the Army. . . . Adams' skirts are in the clear except on one thing. His sense of humor has a low boiling point. He'll wince, rack at the drop of a paper clip. And his wisecracks, when recorded on tapped telephone wires, don't come over as wisecracks.

Candidate Curtis Opposes Flexible Farm Supports

Problems Different, He Asserts

In the process of completing his filing for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, Rep. Carl T. Curtis of Minden came out as opposed to a flexible farm price support program.

Asked how he stood in regard to the Benson flexible price support program, Curtis replied: "I do not favor going to flexible supports. It is my feeling that the farm program is evolutionary and changes for the better will be made all the time."

"We have different problems with crops that can be stored and those which are perishable. With crops that can be stored, such as corn and wheat, it is unlikely that a reduction in price supports would solve the surplus problem."

Perishable Problem

"I think most people on the farm or in the city, if faced with a cut in their income, would try to see what additional work they could do to raise their income. This means that any reduction in support prices or farm income might lead to the production of more crops."

Perishables present a problem for which the congressman stated he had no answer. But any solution that could be worked out by producers, he said, should be given the attention of Congress.

Curtis was more reserved in his discussion of Social Security—a program for which he has advocated widespread revisions.

'Will Back It'

A new Social Security bill is soon to be reported out of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Curtis, and "I will back it." The program, he said, will not be his bill but should pretty well follow the recommendations of President Eisenhower, including extended coverage.

Curtis said his own bill, which he considers more in the way of a study and review of the entire picture for future action, is still in committee.

Finding the State Capitol closed on Arbor Day, Curtis said he would mail in his filing for the Senate. The 49-year-old veteran of eight House terms said he would visit other parts of the state over the week end, returning to Lincoln for an address Monday morning in Lincoln on Social Security before the Rocky Mountain Regional Public Welfare Association.

'Continue Interest'

In a prepared statement, the Minden attorney stated, "If I am elected to the Senate, I intend to concentrate, as I have in the past, on matters of particular interest

STAN DELAPLANE'S

POSTCARD

It seems to be the season for such things. "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" at the Plymouth and the circus in Madison Square Garden lead the list of hard-to-get tickets.

I gather this from the sad and resigned sighs of Mr. "Gentleman George" Solitaire. The ticket broker whom I have just phoned with sprightly inquiries for duets.

The legitimate theater is playing to some fancy amateur opposition. The Adams-Cohn-Schine high wire walking act. And the United States is taking official note of Mr. Frank Costello's gaudy pajamas.

The entertainment season is in high gear.

Mr. Costello is no Johnny-come-lately to the public stage. His Ke-fauver appearance on television gave audiences a homey view of the Costello hands.

He did a small jolt in the pokey for losing his voice in the quiz show. Now Uncle Sugar seeks an income tax evasion thing against him and Mr. Costello is naturally unhappy.

According to the government, Mr. Costello bought monogrammed pajamas at $72.50 a smash. He had daily manicures and once lost a roll of $27,200 in a taxi cab.

I am not enough up on the plot to know just where the crime lies in this layout. I suppose this all goes to prove something, though. Possibly that it is an election year. And time for all good candidates to come to the aid of their country.

It has always seemed an interesting thing about Uncle Sugar. You can play the ponies, beat your wife or rap your fellow man on the noggin with a pick handle.

But if you fail to pay on your winnings or take wife or pick handle off the expense account, the government gets extremely angry.

The crime lies in not sharing with the internal revenue.

Among the expenditures listed for Mr. Costello, the government found an $18,000 marble mausoleum.

Where this fits into the picture is yet to come to court at this writing. And all New York has been waiting since the bailiff opened the ball with his "Hear ye, hear ye. Give your attention, draw nigh and you shall be heard."

There have been some mighty serious allegations against Mr. Costello in the past. And it seems curious that it all should wind up in the federal courts in a mish-mash of monogrammed pajamas and marble mausoleums.

I assume Mr. Costello will inform the court that he bought silken monogrammed pajamas because he likes to sleep in silk. This seems reasonable enough. Though $72.50 sounds more like a down payment for a car.

I have not yet found the fault in the monogramming. Maybe Mr. Costello wakes up in the morning and looks at his monogram and knows who he is. "Still the same old Frank Costello," he says to himself.

Personally I put my name in my hat in case I forget. But I would put it on my pajamas if I was worried.

As to the marble mausoleum, I suppose Mr. Costello is looking toward the end that must come to all of us. Sure as income taxes. Maybe he just likes marble.

Well it is a rare season. With everybody on stage, being court-martialed or leaping horse-to-hoof in the sawdust ring. Whether we will or no.

Everybody in the Adams-Cohn-Schine affair eager to get on stage. Mr. Costello eager to get off stage.

Mr. "Gentleman George" Solitaire sighing outside the crowded boxoffice at us visiting journalists who are eager for two on the aisle.

I am anxious to see the amateur productions myself. I missed Mr. Costello's hands on TV. And did not see him when he was invited a year ago to address the Los Angeles Press Club.

Mr. Costello wired his appreciation and his regrets.

"I have been accused of everything but murdering the King's English," he telegraphed. "And I am afraid I would not be able to beat the rap."

McGrew Co. Seeks To Halt Tax Collection

The McGrew Manufacturing Company has asked the District Court to enjoin Lancaster County officials from collecting back taxes against its property on which the company says the assessed valuation was "erroneously increased."

The company's petition states that "Lot 18" near 1135 No. 22nd, location of the firm's warehouse, was assessed at $3,225 in 1948. But for 1949 and subsequent years, the value was increased to $23,225.

This increase, the company alleges, occurred by someone inadvertently or illegally placing the figure "2" in front of the valuation on the assessor's books.

The company says it was never notified of the increase, and inadvertently and without knowledge of the increase, paid taxes on the property for 1949 and 1950, but has refused to pay for the years 1951, 1952 and 1953.

It is alleged that the property during these years was "vacant, unimproved and unoccupied."

Plaintiff asks the county officials be enjoined from collecting taxes for the assessed increase of $20,000 and be directed to receive payment of taxes based on the $3,225 valuation.

The suit was brought by the company's president, Earl E. McGrew.

U.S. Commission Rejects $118 Million Indian Claim For Gold Removed From Black Hills

WASHINGTON (AP)—Records of the Indian Claims Commission show that it has turned down a claim against the government for $118,912,908 filed by the Sioux Indian Tribe for gold removed from the Black Hills of South Dakota, which the tribe once owned.

The commission also rejected contentions of the Sioux that the United States owed the tribe the value of 73 million acres of land in the West once occupied by its people.

The commission was unanimous in denying the claims.

Chief Commissioner Edgar E. Witt, who wrote the opinion, held that at the time of the Congressional Act of 1877, under which the United States acquired title to the Sioux lands, the quantity of gold underlying the properties was unknown.

Witt noted that under this act the Indians got 917,000 acres of grazing lands, and the federal government assumed a continuing obligation to supply the money necessary for Sioux subsistence "until they are able to support themselves."

The commission found that the Sioux tribe had received under the 1877 act more than 57 million dollars up to Jan. 1, 1953, and asserted that the government must continue to support the Indians for many more years at a rate of about $750,000 annually.

The commission therefore concluded that "under the circumstances at the time, there is no basis for a claim by plaintiffs that the compensation was inadequate or unconscionable, or the defendant was guilty of unfair or dishonorable dealings, or failed in its duty to the plaintiff Indians."

$20,000 A Year Loaned To U Of N Students

By SALLY ADAMS
Star Staff Writer

Approximately $20,000 a year is loaned to University of Nebraska students from the general funds provided for their use.

More than 50 general student loan funds totaling about $200,000 are available to aid students in completing their education.

In addition to the general funds, there are student loan funds set up and administered through the Colleges of Agriculture and Medicine.

W. C. Harper, director of University services and ex-officio member of the student loan committee, said the committee usually holds to the policy that the money loaned is essential to a student's completing a course in college rather than for needs which might develop after graduation.

Reasonable Progress

Loans are not made on the basis of scholarship but a student must be making reasonable progress. A scholastic average of 70 per cent, the same as required for graduation, is usually the minimum, Harper said. Loans are also considered on the basis of a student's ability to repay.

All University student loans have the same liberal interest basis. This is 2 per cent per annum while the recipient is attending the University. After he graduates or leaves school, prior to maturity date, interest is 4 per cent per annum. After maturity the rate jumps to 6 per cent per annum. The interest is payable bi-annually in January and July. By this means, the committee can keep in touch with every borrower.

Harper said the committee usually requires a co-signer for loans. A co-signer furnishes protection for the fund in such events as accidental deaths of the recipient.

423 Loans

As an example of the big business of University loan fund from July 1951 to June 1953, 423 loans ranging from $50 to $700 were granted involving a total of $40,521.

However, 274 were short term or emergency loans all under $50.

These short term loans, Harper said, have increased considerably during the last four or five years. About five years ago, he explained, the GI bill which had financed many men for a few years ran out. There also are fewer men attending school under GI benefits.

The repayment record is very good, Harper said. The University loses less than 1 per cent although sometimes those benefiting have been slow to repay. The University tries to follow up very closely each of its loans. Only as a last resort does the committee turn to bill collectors. Fortunately, Harper said, this is seldom done.

Student Okay

All University student loan funds are provided by individuals, organizations or firms, with the Board of Regents or the University Foundation acting as trustees. The funds are loanable only on approval of the student loan committee.

Each loan is kept separate and identified. A student borrows from a specific fund and repays to that fund. Since many of the funds have special stipulations, the committee tries to make loans to persons best fitting the category prescribed by the donor. The funds are built up principally through investment and interest gained from investment. Interest rates paid by the students also aid in increasing the total amount available.

"We have never had to turn any student down because of lack of loanable funds," Harper said.

The bulk of the loans are made to upperclassmen. Entering freshman and transfer students are not eligible to apply. In an average year, Harper said, the College of Medicine takes care of its own students. However, they can also get loans from the general funds.

The present faculty members serving on the general student loan fund committee are A. R. Loggatt, chairman, professor of civil engineering; Mabel Strong, assistant professor of English; Edwin Halfar, assistant professor of mathematics; Robert A. Olson, associate professor of agronomy; and Richard Farley, assistant director for science and technology at Love Memorial Library.

Geneva Conference Delay Unlikely

PARIS (AP)—An American source said Thursday night the Western powers have reached a firm fresh agreement on refusal to accept Communist China as a host nation at the Geneva conference.

This source disputed a statement from a non-American informant earlier that still unsettled procedural questions might delay the Geneva meeting on Indo-China and Korea from opening on Monday as scheduled.

The American source said there was no prospect of postponement. Adrian Pelt, the United Nations official in Geneva who has been consulting with American, French, Russian and British representatives there, said from a "purely technical view" the conference can open as scheduled. He said technical arrangements were far from perfect but adequate.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, Foreign Minister George Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden met for two hours Thursday to iron out pre-conference details.

One big hitch is Russia's insistence that the Geneva meeting be a five-power conference with Red China as one of the hosts. The Western powers maintain that the Big Four Berlin meeting decided that the Peiping government would be only a participating power.

When the discussion of the Indo-China conflict opens, there will be another big issue—who is to participate. The West expects the Communists to demand that the Vietminh's Communist leader, Ho Chi Minh, or his delegates be admitted. The French-sponsored states of Indo-China already have served notice they will not treat with Ho or any of his aides.

The informant said that faced with this situation, the opinion of Western diplomats is that further talks with the Communists will be required at Geneva before the presentatives there, said from a "purely technical view" the conference can open as scheduled. He said technical arrangements were far from perfect but adequate.

Tito Hints Slavs May Eventually Join EDC

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Marshal Tito hinted that Yugoslavia may eventually join the European Defense Community (EDC).

Speaking to a crowd which welcomed him on his return from a state visit to Turkey, Tito said "We are looking upon the EDC positively."

But he added "Our opinion is that the EDC, in order to become a strong organization, should not be of a purely military character."

He said the projected alliance "should become an organization which should act to soothe the selfish attitude of its members and concentrate on the sole aim—which is peace."

If that took place "we could participate if that would be necessary," he said.

Tito was met at the Belgrade railroad station by his wife, top-ranking Yugoslavia officials and foreign diplomats.

He said his visit to Turkey brought the two countries closer together, politically and militarily.

"We went to Turkey looking for peace," he said "We found there the same longing for peace."

He said he believed Greece would join Yugoslavia and Turkey in a three-country military alliance.

OMAHA (AP)—The second Congress of Freedom rumbled through a full day of speech-making Thursday in preparation for the brass tacks business of welding together a permanent organization devoted to "constitutional principles."

Friday the congress, which has so far attracted about 300 including representatives of politically "rightist" groups and individuals, plus some "observers," will split up into panels for a day of discussion. These panel groups will analyze issue and present recommendations to the full congress on Saturday.

The congress will not endorse candidates.

Favors Bricker Measure

In an address Thursday Alfred J. Schweppe of Seattle, member of the house of delegates of the American Bar Assn., said passage of the Bricker amendment is "more necessary than ever." He cited court decisions he said hold that "federal jurisdiction can be enlarged by use of the treaty power." Schweppe called it the "bootstrap doctrine."

S. Howard Evans of Easton, Pa., president of the national decentralist institute and one of the interim committee which arranged the congress, told the group at the opening session:

"To prove the principles of our constitution have retained their vitality through 150 years of changing conditions is not enough. We must also prove that our principles of freedom, which are old, can provide solutions to current problems, which are new."

Business Session

Evans told reporters the important Saturday session will decide whether the permanent organization will be limited to existing groups rallied round the central body, or whether it will also include unaffiliated individuals.

Rep. Ralph W. Gwinn (R-NY) said in the opening address that power to tax and spend "will starve out the Communists."

Easiest way to redecorate without refurnishing

Say you want to redo your living room. Fine! But what wall and woodwork colors go best with those rose curtains—or with the rug or upholstery?

That's where the DECOR-MATIC Dial comes in. You bring a sample of the curtain color (or the rug or upholstery) to your nearest Devco dealer (listed below). In his DECOR-MATIC Color Rack is a chip that will closely match your curtain color. And on the front of that chip is the letter you DIAL!

The dial tells the story. Three decorator-approved color schemes are revealed automatically; each with a range of colors which harmonize with your particular curtain. You know your choice of colors for your walls and woodwork will be fashion-correct. Because DECOR-MATIC Colors have been chosen the "most wanted" in a national survey of over 300,000 women. They have been voted the most beautiful of all. Decor-matic Colors are easy to choose, easy to use.

Homeowners praise odorless Decor-matic

Total sales for E and H bonds by counties include:

	York $425,230

Commercial hatcheries in Nebraska produced an estimated 8,500,000 chicks last month.

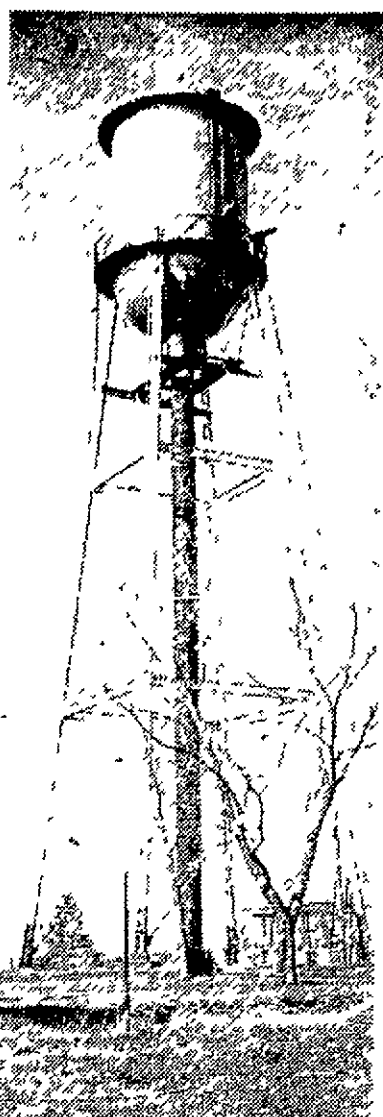

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported this was 23 per cent above March last year, and 10 per cent above the average.

Total output for the first three months of 1954 was 11,495,000, or 17 more than in the corresponding period a year ago.

Prices for straight-run heavy and heavy cross and straight-run light breed chicks were unchanged during the month and remained at $16 per hundred on April 1. Prices advanced $1 per hundred on hybrid chicks.

Prices received by Nebraska farmers for eggs averaged 32 cents per dozen at mid-March. This represented a drop of six cents per dozen from mid-February, making mid-March prices lower than mid-February prices for the first time since 1945.

Tension-Packed Moments Following Ammo Crash Told

OMAHA (AP)—State Safety Patrolman Fred Whalen recalled for a District Court jury Thursday the tension-packed moments following the collision between an ammunition truck and a car on West Dodge Street last year. Whalen testified his testimony for a second day in the motor vehicle homicide trial of Lawrence Davis, 29, Omaha, driver of the ill-fated explosives truck.

The stat trooper said he was a half mile away when the truck crashed into the rear of a car carrying four women. Three of the women were injured fatally. Under cross examination by Defense Attorney Alfred Fiedler, Whalen said his investigation revealed no traffic violations. This information, he testified, was written into the accident report he sent to patrol headquarters.

Heart Disease Is Top Killer, Then Cancer

OMAHA (AP)—Heart diseases have become the biggest killers of human beings, followed by cancer, the director of the Clinical Center of the National Institutes of Health at Bethesda, Md., said.

Dr. John T. Trautman is one of 500 scientists working at the center to make people live longer. And, he said, there is every reason to believe they will succeed.

The center is doing research to solve the mysteries of six major health problems—cancer, heart disease, mental health, blindness and dentistry.

Mental ailments are rapidly becoming a major concern, he said. As persons live longer the problem becomes greater. More than a billion dollars is spent on care of the mentally ill each year, he added.

A great deal of progress is being made, he said, by mere recognition of the fact that mental illness among the aged is bound to increase.

Dr. Trautman spoke at the sixth annual spring medical assembly sponsored by the Creighton University School of Medicine. He was a basketball star at Creighton in the early 1920's.

Recent Rainy Weather Expected To Boost Feeder's Day Crowd

More than 2,000 cattle feeders and other interested persons are expected to attend the 42nd annual Feeder's Day, which will get under way at 9:15 Friday morning in the agricultural college activities building at the University of Nebraska.

Wm. J. Loeffel, chairman of the animal husbandry department, said that several local groups from eastern Nebraska plan to charter special buses to attend the event.

This week's rainy weather will allow more farmers and livestock men to hear the progress reports of cattle feeding experiments conducted at the University during the past year. Loeffel said, since it will not be likely they can work in the fields.

A special program has been planned this year for ladies who wish to accompany their husbands to the event, featuring a cooking school by Miss Reba Staggs, director of home economics for the National Livestock and Meat Board. The women's program will be held in the new meats laboratory on the Ag. College campus for the first time, Loeffel said.

Progress reports of experiments to be discussed include one on the use of animal fats as an energy ingredient in cattle fattening rations in which different levels of edible and indigestible beef tallow were included in the rations.

Discussion of a study of the comparative values of alfalfa hay, bromegrass hay and prairie hay as roughages in fattening cattle rations will also be presented.

Another report will feature this past year's results of tests studying the factors affecting the utilization of roughage, including the levels of protein the effect of molasses, effect of trace minerals.

A dinner will be held at 6 p.m. Friday evening in honor of Albert Hultine, polled Shorthorn breeder from Saronville. Sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club, animal husbandry student organization, the evening's program will feature the presentation of student awards won in livestock judging contests the past year.

N.Y. Builder Made $500,000 Profit On $1,000 Investment

Files Read Into Probe Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—Housing Administration files showing that a New York builder made a $500,000 profit on a $1,000 investment were read into a Senate investigation record by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.).

In another case, Capehart said five stockholders of a building corporation invested a total of $2,000, or $400 apiece, and got $624,000 back on their money. Split five ways this would be $124,800 for each $400 invested. Capehart cited these examples of quick profits at a hearing on multi-million dollar housing scandals before the Senate Banking Committee, of which he is chairman.

FHA Files

The senator said the statistics were taken from files supplied by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA), chief target of the inquiry.

No names were mentioned in Capehart's recital. In the New York case, Capehart said the builder was able to obtain a $4½ million FHA-insured loan with a cash outlay of $1,000. The building project cost about four million, Capehart said, leaving him a "profit" of half a million.

Officials have explained that this was possible because FHA required that rents and operating costs of the finished project be adjusted to repay the full amount of the loan, rather than the actual cost.

Still Building

In the case of the five stockholders, Capehart said the amount of the FHA-insured mortgage was $4,850,000, while the final cost of the project, built under the now-expired emergency postwar rental housing program, was $4,226,000.

Capehart also disclosed that two projects insured under this program, which was in operation from 1942 until 1950, are still under construction. One is in Chicago and the other is in Boston, he said. He added that four other projects have been completed but not yet endorsed by FHA mortgage insurance.

Harry Held, vice president of the Bowers Savings Bank of New York City, was in the witness chair when Capehart read the figures. Held testified his bank financed "many" rental projects under the 1942-50 National Housing Act, but said it was "not aware" that builders were making large profits by pocketing the difference between loans and costs.

Asserting his bank did not require the borrower to give actual construction costs, Held said the "entire responsibility" for cost appraisals was up to the FHA. Neither did the bank examine the builder's equity in the project, he said, adding:

Tightening Urged
"We depended on the FHA guarantee."

Another witness, John C. Williamson of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, urged a tightening of the laws to help prevent future abuses in government housing programs.

Williamson called for passage of the Eisenhower administration's housing bill for 1954, which has been passed by the House and is now before Capehart's committee. He said FHA insurance "has earned its place as a permanent feature in our national mortgage system," and expressed hope a series of investigations now under way would not deal a death blow to federal housing aid.

Williamson suggested the proposed new housing bill could be strengthened by requiring a borrower to certify that his building costs were equal to or more than the government-insured loan, or else requiring him to apply the excess of the loan toward its retirement.

Italy To Korea To Broadway —N.Y. Salutes Heroic 45th

NEW YORK (AP)—The famed 45th Division, which wrote a record of heroism all the way from Italy to Korea, was honored with a traditional New York salute Thursday in a ticker-tape parade up sun-drenched Broadway.

One thousand Korean veterans—all that is left of the noted Thunderbird Division—marched to the cheers of thousands of New Yorkers lining the thoroughfare.

At the head of the column was their commander, Brig. Gen. Harvey H. Fischer.

'Old Wounds.'

A handful of the 45th's remaining contingent couldn't take part in the parade. They were troubled by "old wounds," their commander said.

The 45th came home from Korea last Saturday on a troop transport, the first division ever to arrive here as a unit from Korea. Its reduced size was due to the fact that other personnel already had been released from service or reassigned.

After the ceremonies here, it is to be deactivated and will resume its former position as Oklahoma's National Guard Division.

Bitter Battles

Marching up Broadway to a City Hall welcome by Mayor Robert F. Wagner also were some 2,000 other service men from military installations in this area.

They took part as a means of helping pay tribute to the 45th, which was taken into federal service before World War II broke out and then fought in some of the war's bitterest battles.

Not long after hostilities began in Korea, it was sent there.

'Save York College' Is Group Aim

YORK, Neb. (AP)—A "Save York College Committee" is working at keeping the doors of the 64-year-old institution of higher education open during the coming year.

The board of directors of the Chamber has pledged its support to the committee in an effort to head off consolidation or complete shutdown of the school.

With the assistance of Dr. G. T. Savory, former member of the college staff, the committee will:

1. Obtain pledges from students to return to the campus next fall and to bring another student with them.

2. Build up opinion through individual petitions which may be presented to the board of trustees as well as to the higher boards of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, operator of the school.

3. Stop disintegration of the college.

Funds already have been appropriated for one more year of operation. The "Save York College Committee" hopes to see to it that the school opens on schedule next fall.

Then, when an important meeting of the church is held in September, the committee hopes it can show such a flood of sentiment for continuation that officials of the church will give their approval.

In March, the commission on study of higher education of the church rejected a request by Dr. A. V. Howland, president of York College, that the church continue support of York beyond the fiscal year ending in July, 1955.

Title Not Clear
The 30-member commission recommended that "no campaign to raise funds in the Evangelical United Brethren Church in general to support the college be permitted. We feel that it is a poor business risk for our people to invest funds in a college where the title to the property is not clear."

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled earlier this year that the college could not have clear title to the land on which it stands. The high court had been asked to remove restrictions listed in the deed to the land to facilitate an expansion program.

The banquet, closing the 102nd reunion, will be at 6 p.m. at the Scottish Rite Temple. All Scottish Rite Masons are invited to attend.

The class will receive the 31st and 32nd, or Official Degrees, on the closing day. The work will be in charge of Lincoln Consistory Arthur A. Dobson, 33rd degree, Master of Kadosh. Candidates completing the 32nd degree will organize and elect officers Friday noon.

Slocum Named President Of Publishers Association

ANPA Chooses Philadelphian

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers Association, winding up its annual convention, elected Richard W. Slocum, executive vice president of the Philadelphia Bulletin, as president. He succeeds George C. Biggers, president of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution.

Biggers had served one year. In declining nomination for the customary second term, he said the pressure of his own business left him inadequate time to continue as head of the association. Slocum has been ANPA vice president since last year.

To replace him in this post, the convention elected William Dwight, president and general manager of the Holyoke (Mass.) Transcript and Telegram.

Also elected was Walter J. Blackburn, of the London (Ontario, Canada) Free Press, as secretary. W. L. Fanning, of the Westchester County Publishers, White Plains, N. Y., was re-elected treasurer.

Two new members of the board of director elected were K. A. Engle, of the Little Rock (Ark.) Democrat, and James S. Copley, of the San Diego (Calif.) Union and Tribune.

Blackburn is the first Canadian newspaperman in the memory of ANPA officials to be elected an association officer. Twelve Canadian newspapers, mostly larger ones, are among the ANPA's 787 newspaper members.

The convention heard a report on plans of a group of publishers for setting up a national newspaper institute, to provide training materials and research in various newspaper operations. The report was presented by Lisle Baker of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal and Times, chairman of the project committee, and Robert H. Spahn, of the Oklahoma City Oklahoman and times.

Betty Hutton And Hubby Separate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Betty Hutton and her husband, Charles O'Curran, have separated, a spokesman for the Capitol Theatre said Thursday night.

Miss Hutton, a singing and dancing star, has been playing here for the past week.

The theater official said the separation was due to "career trouble."

O'Curran, who directed Miss Hutton's dance numbers in a number of night club and theater presentations, has gone to New York.

Miss Hutton, married two years, was reported by the theater management "to be in a highly emotional state."

Miss Mayer Rites To Be Saturday

Previously she had been stenographer for the Welfare Department and Supreme Court Commission at the capitol.

A Lincoln resident about 40 years, she came here from Beatrice where she was born.

Court Asked To Uphold White Fee

The Supreme Court was asked in a brief filed Thursday to uphold the Lancaster County District Court award of $60,000 to Paul W. White of Lincoln as attorney fee in the Ebke School land lease case.

White was attorney for Fred Ebke of Deuel County in the suit which resulted in overthrow by the Court in 1951 of the 1947 legislative act providing automatic renewal of school land leases.

As a result of this litigation, 2,300 leases automatically renewed during the four-year period were sold at auction, bringing about $4,500,000 additional into the state school fund in the form of bonuses bid for the new leases.

The State Board of Educational Lands and Funds, which is trustee for the school fund, appealed from the District Court order allowing Attorney White a fee of $60,000 for his work in the case.

White put 3,220 hours of work into the case, the brief filed by his counsel says.

"When the Legislature passes laws with reference to the operation of the trust, which are beneficial to it, as they did in 1947 when they made automatic renewal of school land leases to the old lessees mandatory, the attorney general is placed in the inconsistent position of performing his official duty of defending an attack on such legislation, even though a successful defense will not protect the trust. This was the situation in the Ebke case," the brief says.

"In such cases it is absolutely necessary that the trust be able to protect itself, and such self protection demands that expenses and an attorney's fee in doing so be paid. Otherwise, no one will attempt to provide this self-protection in the future," the brief concludes.

Since the Ebke case was decided, White has been elected a judge of the Lancaster county district court, but in the fee matter Judge H. Emerson Kokjer of Wahoo was on the bench.

De Castries Ready To Give Up His General Rank If Promotion Doubt Exists

Disclosure Is Made Official

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, defender of besieged Dien Bien Phu, was quoted officially Thursday night as saying he is ready to give up his general rank if "the slightest doubt" exists as to the circumstances of his promotion from colonel.

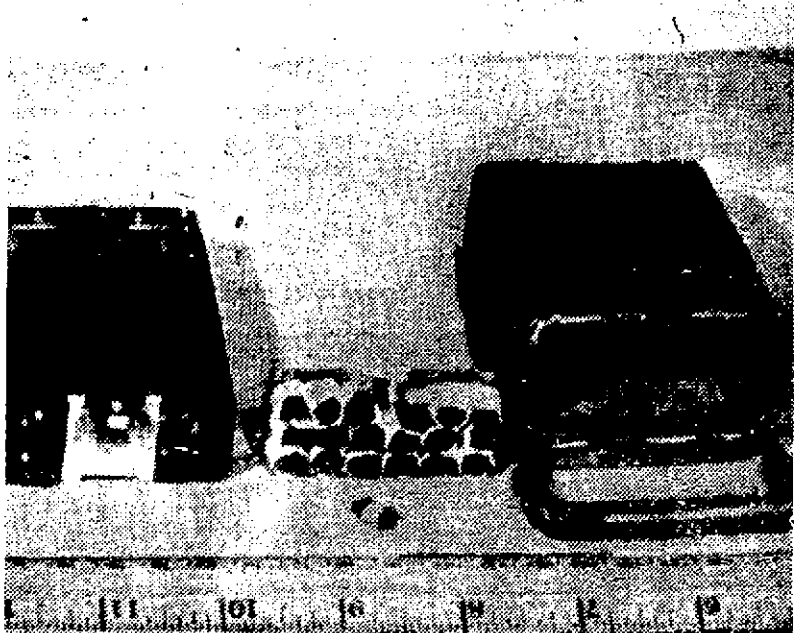

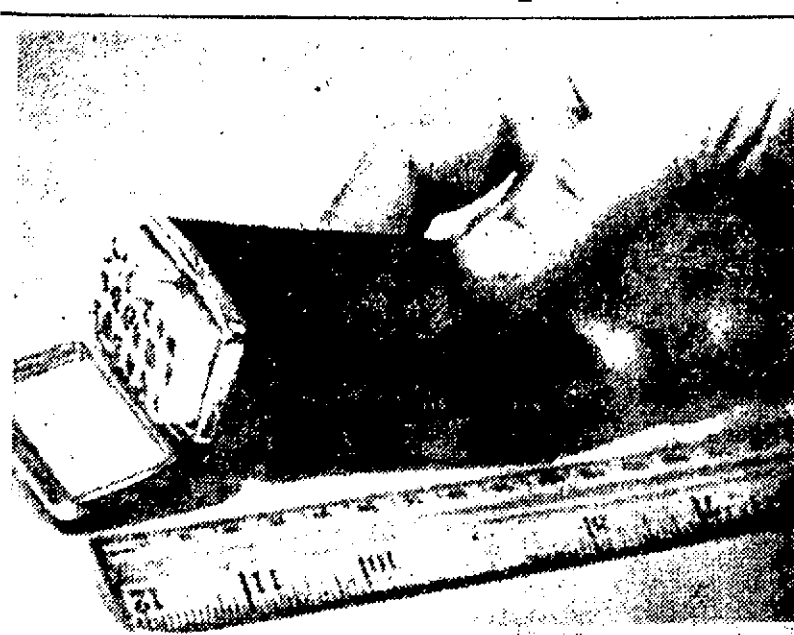

The statement was issued by the military information office of the French Army headquarters in Hanoi.

De Castries was promoted to brigadier general by the French government April 16 after it had been reported authoritatively that he was indignant at the delay in his promotion and was threatening to resign his commission.

Subsequently it was disclosed that it was his wife, Jacqueline, who in interviews in Hanoi, had authorized the report. She said her husband had authorized her to say he would quit the army unless he was promoted.

No Personal Contact
The statement by the headquarters Thursday night did not deny the threat to resign. It said: "Gen. de Castries declares upon his honor he has not had any personal contact with the press and had not asked anybody to have such contact. Mme. de Castries, little informed upon military problems, probably had shown a certain tiredness that has been exploited by a press correspondent seeking sensation-alism."

RADIO STATIONS ARE INCREASING

NEW YORK (INS)—Continued growth in the number of U. S. radio stations despite the tremendous emphasis being placed on television was reported in the 1954 yearbook of Radio-Television Daily.

The annual reference book of the trade publication pointed out that commercial radio stations increased by 120 during the past year, reaching a total of 2,444 outlets. The number of commercial television stations in operation has now reached more than 375 and is "increasing regularly."

The book also includes a report from the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers' Association showing that 28½ million TV sets have been manufactured in the United States since 1946. During 1953, U. S. factories turned out 7,214,787 television sets and 13,368,556 radio sets, according to the report.

Eisenhower Asks For Spiritual Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said the way to combat Communist atheism and dictatorship is by "spiritual unity among ourselves and our friends."

In a brief speech to the Daughters of the American Revolution, he called upon America to show a spirit of determination and spiritual revitalization that "can't be whipped by anything in the world." If that is done, he said, "We cannot fail."

The President emphasized his call for spiritual unity by saying that was a "rough chart" to "win the cold war and prevent a hot war."

Underneath this principle, he asserted, is the love of liberty, and a belief in the common dignity of man.

The President also deplored what he described as tenseness and fears among the American people. He said the free world has so much in its favor when compared with the countries behind the Iron Curtain that there is no room for fear.

South Tops Links, 4-3

Lincoln Star Special
OMAHA—Lincoln High's Bill Bergtraesser weakened in the last inning to drop a tight 4-3 win to Omaha South here Thursday afternoon.

Four triples were hit in the contest—three of them accounting for runs. Only a triple by South's Gil Dunne was wasted as far as counting a score was concerned.

The Links led 3-2 going into the last frame. However, with one out Jerry Vodka singled to left field and scored on a triple by Pat Reilly to tie up the score.

With Reilly on third and only one out Bergtraesser got Packer Pitcher Dunne to ground out to the infield. Then Jan Philby singled on a grounder through the infield to score Reilly to end the game.

Lincoln scored its runs in the first two innings. In the first frame Roger Khrounek walked and stole second. Jim Maul struck out. Gary Smith grounded into a fielder's choice and the throw to the plate to get Khrounek was too late. That ended the Lincoln scoring for the inning.

However, in the second Bill Bergtraesser went to first on catcher's interference. Khrounek walked and a long triple by Jim Maul brought both the men home.

Along with producing as sharp-calibered minor league baseball as any league anywhere, the Western League has seen its share of unusual incidents during its nearly 70 years of operation.

Who will forget that night over in Des Moines on May 21, 1947?

That was the night that Lincoln's Bobby Shantz threw only 17 called balls in nine innings. Until the eighth inning, he did not get as high as a two-ball count against any Bruin batter. He totaled only 94 pitches.

Five of his 56 strikes were fouls, six pitches were hit safely, 15 others were hit and turned into easy outs and he fanned 12.

Radar never saw such control. Scouting Bill Bryson's Western League record book, we came on some lighter moments.

Like the day Ernie Mann rode a horse into the Wichita training camp in 1919 and asked for a job. The cowboy stayed to become one of the league's top pitchers.

How about what happened in Leadville, Colo., on July Fourth way back in 1886? It snowed and the Leadville-St. Joe game was held up for an hour!

Franchises were a day to day chance in the old days. Des Moines, for example, in 1890 tried balloon races, marathons, jumps and even a May Day festival. The fans still wouldn't come and in August the franchise was shifted to Lincoln.

Lincoln and Des Moines ran into trouble on July 14, 1907 when Umpire Jack Haskell withdrew from the game because of a boil on his leg. Filling in was Eddie Cocotte, then a Lincoln pitcher and later involved in the Chicago Black Sox scandal. One of Eddie's calls brought about fist-cuffs between Manager Ducky Holmes of Lincoln and Andy Corl of the home club and the game ended in a 1-1 tie.

The two teams next met up with Haskell's allergy for boils on Aug. 17. This time, Lincoln refused to send out a man and Des Moines won by forfeit. To climax the weird rivalry, each player on both clubs was fined a dollar and costs on Sept. 17 for playing baseball on Sunday in Lincoln.

There are no records of a Western League player ever suing a writer of the day, although some of them must have been tempted. Dig this paragraph from a Colorado Springs paper of July 31, 1904: "Herman for the locals is left field, played like a wooden man, his stupidity and poor judgment allowing the visitors to clinch the game in the third inning."

Ever hear of how Lincoln whipped Wichita by a whopping 46-7 on Aug. 8, 1887? The old Links accumulated 50 hits for a total of 72 bases. Who said that was the era of the dead ball?

Every player in the Lincoln lineup got at least five hits, including Jack Beckley, later to become one of the National League's top sluggers.

Tricky? Was the time the late Pug Griffin used a stunt to produce the winning run of a 13-inning 8-7 win over Oklahoma City. Two men down, Pete Brausen on third and Griffin at bat and the score tied, Pug accused Pitcher Paul Rasmussen of doctoring the ball.

Pug asked to look at it. Rasmussen tossed it plateward, Griffin stepped aside and Brausen scored the clincher while Catcher Jack Cady was chasing the ball to the grandstand.

Who was a starting Omaha batter in 1936? No other than Pitcher Clarence Mitchell and Catcher Hank Severide, each 45 years old. That hints the present Chiefs may get at least 10 more years service out of oldsters like Andy Bush, Norm Brown, Red McQuillen, Tom Neill and Freddy Hancock. Rube Marquard was still pitching for Wichita at 44.

The 1927 stolen base champ (with 49) was a guy appropriately named Joe Rabbitt of the Omaha team.

Sherman Field was under seven feet of water in 1950, allowing Business Manager Howard Gordon to paddle to the centerfield fence in a rowboat.

In 1949, fleet Chuck Tanner of Denver lost a shoe as he rounded third. Yet still made the plate safely for an inside-the-park homer against Lincoln.

Lincoln scored 10 times in the first inning against Sioux City on July 13, 1950—and that was all the scoring for either team for the night.

The peddlers can go on for 100 more pages. It all adds up to one thought: The Western is, and has been, one tremendously colorful league.

Five Hitter By Pillette Wins 4-1

BALTIMORE (AP)—Duane Pillette, lanky righthander, settled down after the first inning and gave the Cleveland Indians only five hits Thursday for his second straight Baltimore Oriole victory by a 4-1 score.

Between the first, when he forced in the only Indian run with a walk, and the ninth innings, Pillette's pitches from his six-foot-four height had the Indians stopped dead.

From the third through the seventh inning he faced only the minimum of 15 batters. No Indian got past first base from the third through the eighth.

The Orioles gave him a three-run cushion in the first inning when the first four batters shelled Mike Garcia from the mound with consecutive singles and three runs.

BEATRICE—Hastings managed a third place in the final event of the Mid-East Conference track meet, the 880-yard relay, to come from behind and edge Beatrice for the loop title here Thursday.

Hastings won with 67 points to 66 for Beatrice. Northeast had 61 and Fairbury lagged with 34.

It was the Tigers' fourth championship since 1942 when the conference was organized. However, they almost lost out to Coach Willis Jones' Orangemen.

Beatrice led 66-65 going into the 880 relay but was shut out in that event and lost the meet when Hastings picked up a third place, good for two points. Northeast's team of Bill Fry, Ken Nelson, Harry Large and Gene Samuelson won the event in a fast 1:35.1.

Nelson also continued his mastery in the sprints, turning in a fine .10:1 clocking in the 100-yard dash despite a soft track. He did the 220 in :23.5. His time in the century tied the meet record.

NW Wins 3-2 Pitching Duel

Nebraska Wesleyan moved one step closer to a repeat championship in the Midwest Baseball League Thursday by beating Concordia of Seward, 3-2, in a tight pitching duel on the Wesleyan diamond.

Marvin Deal of Wesleyan and Joe Henning of Concordia matched five-hit pitching jobs, but Wesleyan bunched three hits in the fifth inning for the winning margin. It was the Plainsmen's third MBL victory.

Jerry Kroeger walked and stole second with one out in the fifth to start the run parade for Wesleyan. Ron Bachman scored Kroeger with a sharp single and later scored on Mel Sheary's second single of the game. Sheary crossed on a long single by Jerry Rainforth.

Concordia scored in the fourth inning on Maurice Volker's triple and a fly ball to center field. The Bulldogs got one in the seventh on two walks and a base hit.

Retired Envoy Sam Reber Refuses To Enter Army-Joe Issue

McCarthy Implies Diplomat 'Dropped'

NEW YORK (AP)—Samuel Reber, a retired veteran U. S. diplomat, refused Thursday night "to inject myself" into an issue he said was between the Army and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

McCarthy implied by questions at the Senate investigations subcommittee hearing in Washington that Reber was "dropped" or "allowed to resign" from the State Department because of security risk charges growing out of investigations by the McCarthy committee.

Of this, Reber said: "When I reached the statutory retirement age, I asked for retirement and permission was granted."

"I think this is an issue between the Army and McCarthy and therefore I have very little to say on the subject."

"Made Attacks"

"I don't want to inject myself into it."

McCarthy also declared Reber had "repeatedly made attacks" on Roy Cohn and G. David Schine, McCarthy committee aids, during their trip to Europe last year, inspecting U. S. Moraries.

"I think enough has been said about that to make them realize it's completely extraneous to this issue," Reber asserted.

At that time, Reber was acting high commissioner for Germany.

"Cohn and Schine attacked one of my men and naturally I defended him," Reber said.

One of those criticized by Cohn and Schine was Theodore Kagan, then acting deputy chief of the High Commissioner's Public Affairs Office. Kagan later resigned after a hearing before McCarthy.

Reber was brought into the hearing when McCarthy was questioning Reber's brother, Gen. Miles Reber. The diplomat's brother said he never heard of any such security charges. The general said his brother retired "as he was entitled to do by law, upon reaching the age of 50."

A State Department spokesman told newsmen only that records show Reber "voluntarily retired." The spokesman said he couldn't say any more.

Born at Easthampton, N. Y., only July 15, 1903, Reber is an alumnus of Groton School and Harvard College. He entered the foreign service in 1926 and has held various important posts, including deputy vice-president of the Allied Control Commission in Italy; Political officer at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters during World War II; political adviser at the Council of Foreign Ministers in Paris in 1946, and deputy U. S. high commissioner for Germany.

His name came up in hearings after his brother, Gen. Reber, had testified that heavy pressure was exerted from McCarthy's office in behalf of a quick Army commission for G. David Schine, a McCarthy aid who is now a draftee.

The NU employee was a passenger in the back seat of a car driven by Edward D. Neher of 7024 Ballard that was traveling east on O Street.

The Neher car was the middle vehicle in a line of three cars that were damaged.

'Scientists Must Be Good To Prevent Misuse Of Power'

By SALLY ADAMS
Star Staff Writer

Men using the knowledge of science must be good people for knowledge, like any other power, can be misused.

This opinion was expressed by Dr. George Sartori, professor emeritus of the history of science at Harvard University, in an informal lecture at the University of Nebraska Thursday afternoon.

He said creation of the ability to use science wisely can be done by adding the humanities to the study of science. There never can be too much knowledge, he said.

Dr. Sartori, a longtime advocate of the teaching of history of science, said his fight has been a struggle on two fronts—"blind materialism" and "ignorant idealism."

He explained his belief in the light that science has grown so much that it is impossible to teach it in its historical or natural order.

Technical teaching must be completed by spiritual teaching "to show how all things hang together and how man has created those things."

Dr. Sartori said the tendency has been to forget that all of poetry and art including science is the core of the humanities. Science, he added gives men an understanding of God, nature and themselves.

"Science is the fruit of the noblest and purest of human activities—the search for truth."

Men study history to understand the world in which they are living, he said. Religion, art and science must be in the center of this study.

Science is in the center of the center, because it is cumulative as well as creative.

Because science is so progressive, pure science of the past may be overlooked, Dr. Sartori stated. He pointed out that there is no technical reason to study the old works of science.

As another reason for advocating the teaching of the history of science, he stressed that history is to explain the unity of mankind. The greatest marvel of science is that it explains the universe. All scientific men are brothers, he said, since they are studying the same things and using the same techniques everywhere.

Dr. Sartori will give the final lecture of the Montgomery series at 8 p.m. Friday in Love Library Auditorium.

Missionaries Freed

HONG KONG (AP)—Seven ragged and thin French missionaries including one bishop, arrived from Red China in what appeared to be clean-cut of French nationals from the mainland. All had been in Communist prisons, some as long as three years.

Bishop Andrew Defebvre, 68, of Paris, said he had heard guards say U. S. citizens would not be permitted to leave China.

CURRAN RAPS HEALTH PLAN MEDIC BLOCK

WASHINGTON (INS)—CIO Vice-President Joseph Curran charged that insurance and medical lobbies are causing delay in enactment of health legislation at a cost of unnecessary death and suffering.

Curran, in testimony prepared for delivery before the Senate Subcommittee on Health, said the United States is "acting like a patient who puts off going to the doctor when he knows he should—the longer he waits, the greater the need and the higher the price."

He said: "Is President Eisenhower scared of huckster slogans about 'socialized medicine' after a lifetime in the Army? Are the members of Congress scared by the false use of the words 'socialized medicine' when many of them make use of the fine facilities of the U.S. Naval Hospital in Bethesda and the Walter Reed Hospital?"

Senators Rap India Obstruction Of U.S. Airlift To Indo-China

WASHINGTON (INS) — Congressional leaders denounced Indian Prime Minister Nehru's obstruction of the American airlift of French troops to Indo-China and threatened to cut off foreign aid funds for his country.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) said he was "amazed, shocked and disappointed" at Nehru's refusal to allow U. S. planes ferrying French paratroopers to fly over India.

Bridges declared the action was certain to "damage" the outlook for American economic aid to India. He asserted: "Now is the time to use and emphasize the term 'mutual aid'."

Senate GOP Policy Chairman Homer Ferguson, Mich., accused Nehru of "giving aid and comfort to the Communist world." Senate

Republican Leader William F. Knowland, Calif., said the free world "will be sorely disappointed."

Knowland added: "It is consistent with the votes of India in the United Nations during the Korean War, when better than 85 per cent of the time the Indian delegates voted with the Communist powers."

The Pentagon, meanwhile, confirmed that U. S. C-124 Globemasters ferrying sorely needed French reinforcements to Indo-China have been ordered to "detour around India" on a route adding thousands of miles to the flight.

Meanwhile, Asian diplomatic sources in Washington said India may seek next week to enlist the support of other nations in an Indo-China peace plan independent of the East-West negotiations, which are to open Monday at Geneva.

These sources said the Indian plan will be projected when the prime ministers of India, Indonesia, Burma, Ceylon and Pakistan meet in Colombo, Ceylon.

The informants said the plan will call for an immediate truce between the Communist and French Union forces; a "cooling off" period, full independence for the Associated States of Indo-China, withdrawal of all French and Chinese Red troops; United Nations aid in solving basic problems, and eventual free elections under U. N. supervision.

The diplomats predicted that India would argue that the West goes into the Geneva conference with an unworkable "unconditional surrender or total war" formula for presentation to the Chinese Reds and their Russian partners.

In another development, special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean left for Korea to maintain close liaison with President Syngman Rhee during the Geneva conference, the primary purpose of which—with the Indo-China situation as a collateral issue—is to achieve a Korean peace treaty.

Foreign Aid Administrator Harold E. Stassen said that U.S.-Indian relations would be "fully appraised" in the light of Nehru's action before Congress is asked to appropriate more money for assistance to India.

State Law Said 'Unusually Vicious'

OMAHA (AP)—A Lincoln man has called "unusually vicious" Nebraska's law providing for remonstrance petitions to eliminate the sale of beer without a vote of the people.

A. W. Whitworth, Nebraska representative of the United States Brewers Foundation, spoke at a meeting of the Women's Association of Allied Beverage Industries here.

"No other state has such a law," he said. "Beer can be eliminated almost overnight, without any hearing and without a vote of the people."

The remonstrance petition method provides that the sale of beer can be eliminated from a community if 51 per cent of the registered voters who voted in the last election sign the prohibition petition.

Witness At Court-Martial Calls Dickenson 'Rat' Who Squealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Sgt. Lyle W. Jacobson testified all loyal Americans in a Korean prison camp knew Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson was "a rat" who squealed on his buddies.

Jacobson glared fiercely at Dickenson as he made the accusation at the four-day-old court-martial of Dickenson on charges of collaborating with the Communists and informing on his comrades.

Dickenson, 23, of Cracker Neck, Va., is one of two American GIs who originally chose to stay with the Communists after the armistice but later had a change of mind and came home.

Jacobson, who hails from Butte, Mont., told the court-martial that he and seven other POWs spoke among themselves in terms of ridicule of their Communist captors while plotting an escape from the prison camp last April.

As the talk went on, he said, he spotted Dickenson just outside the bullet "looking at the ground."

"The next day," Jacobson continued, "I was taken to a China-man we called 'The Skull' and was put under interrogation. He began throwing everything we had said in my face."

The witness said that three months later the Communists accused him of threatening, so-called "progressive students" among the POWs.

He said the incident took place shortly after he had told Dickenson he would be "taken care of" when they got back home.

Earlier, Alexander Luther of Toms Creek, Va., who was a fellow prisoner with Dickenson in Korea, testified that under instructions from Army Intelligence agents he obtained a letter Dickenson had written home urging that all POWs in Korea be repatriated whether they wanted to go home or not.

This was the line followed by the Communists, who repeatedly demanded during the preliminary cease-fire talks that all prisoners should be sent home regardless of their wishes.

Dickenson's letter to his parents, read into the record, said among other things that "the treatment here is wonderful," but a prison camp was "not like home."

Dickenson also wrote that it was ridiculous for the United Nations to refuse to sign a Korean armistice unless it was specified that repatriation would be voluntary.

All told, the prosecution paraded eight ex-POWs to the witness chair, each giving accounts of Dickenson's signing peace petitions, writing Red articles and in some cases, informing on other POWs.

Omaha Man Is Elected New Chairman Of State AWWA

Bert Gurney of Omaha has been elected chairman of the Nebraska section of the American Water Works Association.

Gurney succeeded Charles B. Elliott, Beatrice, who moves to the past chairman post in the organization.

Meeting in conjunction with the utilities section of the League of Nebraska Municipalities, the AWWA group elected William Sommer, Fremont, vice chairman; E. Bruce Meier, Lincoln, secretary-treasurer; and Ralph Lancaster, Kearney, director.

Water Works Group Elects Officers

Jr. Champaign Ill., AWWA national vice president, stated that no man in the national Association is better known or more respected than Dave Erickson.

The NWAA group presented with presentation of a life membership in the Association.

Erickson has completed 30 years of continuous membership in the Association. In presenting the award Frank C. Amsbary, Lincoln City Engineer, D. L. Erickson was recognized for outstanding service in the AWWA.

Erickson Elliott

its past chairman award to Charles B. Elliott, Beatrice, and the utilities section presented the same kind of award to L. L. Clark of Broken Bow.

In speaking before the group at their noon luncheon, Amsbary asserted that water rates throughout the country, including Lincoln, are too low. Rates must be established, he said, which will permit proper planning ahead and building of adequate reserves.

Other high spots of the conference included an address by Ralph N. Perkins, Omaha, on swimming pools and their operation; Charles E. Carl, Pierre, S. D., speaking on lagooning of sewage; and Dave R. Hill, Hastings, speaking on city ownership and maintenance of water meters.

The joint meeting will close Friday afternoon.

YORK, Neb. (AP)—A bill passed by the 1953 Legislature will cost York County more than five times as much in salaries by 1957 unless it changes its form of government.

York County is the only county in the state with a 20-man board of commissioners.

By 1957, under Legislative Bill No. 9, salaries for the commissioners will total $28,500 as compared to the present average of around $5,000.

The bill passed by the last

Legislature provides that commissioners in a county the size of York will be paid an annual salary of $1,425, plus six cents per mile for travel.

The commissioners now get $7.50 per day. The commissioners now meet once a month. If by 1957 they continue the monthly meetings, they'll receive almost $119 for their day's work—plus mileage.

In 1952, voters in the county rejected a proposal for a three-man board.

Box Butte Issues Stern Gambling Warning

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP) — Club owners and heads of other organizations have received letters from Box Butte County Attorney Robert Moran warning that his office will not tolerate "gambling in any form."

Moran's letters followed receipt, he said, of numerous complaints in the last few weeks on alleged gambling in clubs and other Box Butte establishments.

Bankruptcy Petition

Walter Warning of Rt. 1 Lincoln has filed in Federal Court a petition in voluntary bankruptcy listing liabilities of $1,605.62, including $1,298.62 in unsecured claims. Bulk of the 19 unsecured claims is due for medical and hospital services. Assets were listed at $100, claimed as exempt.

All Grains Lower In Weak Market

CHICAGO (AP) — All grains headed lower on the Board of Trade Thursday with even old crop soybeans joining the retreat late in the session.

With the exception of May and July soybeans, the market was weak from the start and never showed any worthwhile rallying ability. The old crop soybean futures again were supported by covering on the part of previous short sellers.

Wheat closed 1 1/2¢ lower, corn 1 1/2¢ lower, soybeans 1 1/2¢ lower and old crop soybeans 1 1/2¢ lower.

There was some more moisture Thursday in Illinois, the main soybean producing state, but it was not enough to hold soybeans down to a solid state, traders reasoned.

Also, a factor in the slide of wheat, many sections of Kansas reported rain overnight.

Ensemble Ends Season With Varied And Unusual Program

As a finale to this season's series of chamber music concerts in Lincoln, the Fine Arts Ensemble presented a varied and rather unusual program Thursday night before an enthusiastic audience of music lovers.

Jack Snider, French horn artist, was featured in the Mozart Quintet in E Flat Major. This work contains a great deal of fast difficult passage work for the horn. Mr. Snider demonstrated the flexibility of the horn as a solo instrument, and at the same time achieved an unusual blend which is difficult to obtain with instruments of another family.

The Shostakovich String Quartet, Op. 69 No. 2, was the most exciting work of the evening. The first movement, executed in a vigorous style, was followed by a hauntingly beautiful recitative for solo violin which was played by Mr. Wishnow with much feeling and warmth. The supporting accompaniment of low somber chords added to the effectiveness of the recitative. The Romance which concluded the movement made surprising use of conventional chords followed by startling dissonances. This movement was very effectively played and highlighted the evening's concert. In the last two movements of the quartet, the inner voices were featured as soloists more than in the classical quartets. Characteristic of the music of Shostakovich was the use of dissonance as tension seeking relief.

The concert closed with the String Quintet in F Major, Op. 88, by Brahms. The addition of a second violin, played by Morris Collier, gave a fullness to the inner parts. The quintet had the usual intensity of concentration so characteristic of Brahms' chamber music. The work demands careful blending which was skillfully done by the ensemble. The contrast between this work and the preceding quartet was most interesting.

William Primrose, world famous violinist, will be featured with the Fine Arts Ensemble in a special concert at the Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha on April 30. Members of the ensemble are: Emanuel Wishnow, Trombone; Morstan, Max Gilbert and Helena Bell.

Morrison Urges World Evangelism Of Democracy, Hits Ezra Benson

Frank Morrison, Democratic candidate for Congressman for the First district, told members of the City Industrial Union Council here Thursday night that the United States should promote "a world-wide evangelism of democracy."

"We put in too much time worrying about Communism, shaking and being scared of it," the McCook candidate asserted.

Communism, he said, is of course a threat to the United States, "but the FBI is the proper agency to handle the problem."

Speaking of agriculture problems Morrison declared that if Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson cuts the price of wheat 30 cents a bushel, Nebraska will lose $100 million annually.

He charged that Benson had gone "completely nuts" over food surpluses.

"Farm strength depends on wheat," Morrison said. "We have in Nebraska and other places areas not adaptable to anything other than wheat."

The Congressional candidate said that new uses must be opened up for wheat and an international wheat pool is needed to distribute surplus wheat.

Morrison spoke out for "certain changes" in the Taft-Hartley labor law.

He said the Communist affidavit encouraged the attitude that workers over 45 should be discharged and he would use his injunction for the purpose of forcing people to go to work "a very dangerous thing."

Sent To Kill, MVD Officer Deserts And Bares Secrets To West

Asks Free World To Save Wife, Son He Left Behind

BONN, Germany (AP)—A Soviet secret police captain sent to West Germany to kill a Russian resistance leader has deserted to the West and bared some of the Kremlin's top secrets, including new type of assassination weapons.

This was announced here by U. S. authorities, who said two veteran East German Communists and the secret police captain made up a three-man murder squad assigned to the killing of Georgi Sergeevich Okolovich, a member of the anti-Soviet organization NTS in Frankfurt.

The captain is Nikolai Evgenyevich Khokhlov, 31, a staff officer of the Soviet MVD.

At a news conference arranged here by the U. S. State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency, Khokhlov said he was deterred from carrying out the slaying by a stirring appeal from his "wonderful wife." She remains in Moscow along with their 21-month-old son and his wife's 14-year-old sister.

Special Weapons
Khokhlov appealed to the free world to save his family from what he said were certain Soviet reprisals, possibly death.

At his side as he spoke, was Okolovich, the man he was supposed to kill.

Khokhlov, named as his East German assistants Hans Kukovich and Kurt Weber. They are now in protective custody at their own request, U. S. authorities said.

The three-man squad slipped into Germany from Switzerland following special training in Moscow. They were equipped with such weapons as specially silenced electrically fired pistols and devices which fire lead pellets containing cyanide poison from a darning cigarette case. Western experts said nothing like them had been seen in the West before.

On arriving in Frankfurt last February, Khokhlov went directly to his intended victim Okolovich and told him of the plot.

'Horror Tale'

Okolovich arranged a meeting between the Russian and American intelligence agents outside the opera house. Khokhlov asked for political asylum.

American agents then picked up the two Germans and collected the assassination weapons from the check room of Frankfurt's main railway station.

The U. S. statement said Khokhlov belonged to a branch of the MVD, the security police, known as "The Ninth Section for Terror and Diversion." Its special task was sabotage, kidnapping and assassination.

Soviet Zone radio stations brushed off Khokhlov's story as "a horror tale full of contradictions," without giving any details.

Appeal From Wife

The Russians told the news conference that he abandoned the assassination plot after an emotional appeal from his wife, just before his departure from Moscow three months ago on his mission.

"I first thought of standing aside and letting the others (the two Germans) do the murder," Khokhlov said. "Then my wife told me 'If this man is killed then you will be the assassin!'"

"She said, 'If it takes place then you will no longer have a wife or child. I cannot remain the wife of an assassin!'"

Khokhlov added: "This to me was the insuperable obstacle. I asked her if she realized what awaited her if I went West. She said she knew and it in no way altered her decision."

Dressed in a blue business suit and wearing gold-rimmed glasses, the stocky, blond Russian appealed to the free world to save his family now from Soviet reprisals.

"If you (the press) will transmit an appeal to the United Nations, to President Eisenhower, and to the governments where murder is considered a crime, the Soviet government will not dare to kill my wife," he said.

The Russian said Okolovich was marked for assassination by the MVD "because he belongs to an organization opposed to the Soviet Union. The facts that he is a revolutionary dedicated to a decent life for Russia is sufficient reason for the Soviet government to desire his death."

The NTS to which Okolovich belongs is a Soviet emigre organization which urges the overthrow of the Communist regime in Moscow. Dr. Alexander Truchnovich, West Berlin leader of NTS, disappeared from West Berlin last week. The West German police said he was kidnapped. The East Germans said he came over to their side on his own volition.

Reward Offered

The West Berlin government offered 100,000 marks reward for information leading to the arrest of the alleged kidnapers.

American authorities distributed a 25-page document outlining the assassination plot, describing the murder weapons and giving a summary of information provided by the Russian on the Kremlin's far-flung espionage and kidnapping machine.

A State Department spokesman said: "The credibility of the facts provided by Khokhlov has been the subject of world-wide research. Only then was it decided to make some of this information public."

The American document said the Russian has given American intelligence agents information on:

What happened in Russia and in the MVD following Stalin's death and Beria's downfall.

The role played by the MVD organization in Berlin in the kidnapping in 1952 of Dr. Walter Linse, a leading German anti-Communist who was abducted from his apartment in West Berlin.

The recruitment of Jacques Mornard for the Trotsky assassination in Mexico. He is in prison in Mexico for the crime.

Khokhlov ascribed MVD activities to A. S. Panyushkin, who was Soviet ambassador to the United States from 1947-52, when he was sent to Red China as ambassador. He said he conferred several times with Panyushkin on the Frankfurt assassination plot.

Khokhlov's disclosures were so detailed that correspondents were given a chart of the organization of MVD from the Kremlin right down to the Soviet sectors of Berlin and Vienna.

No Sleep For The Twins Dandruff And Itchy Scalp

RED OAK, Iowa—Mrs. Carl Nunn of Red Oak, says: "Dandruff and itchy scalp were tormenting me so bad it kept me awake at night scratching and clawing. After trying many products without relief, I finally got a bottle of Baker's Hair Tonic, and to my amazement it brought relief to this torment I had been suffering so long. I can't praise Baker's enough."

For dandruff and itchy scalp, use Baker's Hair Tonic. For clean scalp and lustrous hair, use Baker's Shampoo. Buy them where you trade. You will like both, or the makers will refund your money.—Adv.
